James Agnew closed a very successful term of school here last Friday. We understand he has been re-engaged for the coming year—Mrs. Smith, of St. Charles, visited at Mrs. Rowley's this week—Miss Maud Beardsley, of Oakley, visited her sister, Mrs. James Agnew, Thursday—Dr. Gould, of Brant, visited friends here Sunday—Mrs. Geo. Vancuren is very sick with stomach trouble—Mrs. Eggleston visited her son, Wm. Crane, of Oakley, last week—Rev. G. W. Gordon's family were made happy by the appearance of a ten pound daughter Tuesday—Some of the boys from here went fishing somewhere near St. Charles the first of the week. They report the bites (mosquito bites) quite plentiful, but the fish rather scarce.

Hazelton.

Mrs. Ann Marble, of Gratiot county, is visiting relatives in this place—Howard Crawford, of Owosso, was in this vicinity last week on business—Several young people of this place attended the graduation exercises held at Owosso last Friday evening—Hugh Conklin and Albert Sherman assisted the Venice Browns in a game of base ball with the Caledonia boys, last Saturday—Miss Maud Cline is visiting friends in this place—While James Conklin and wife were returning from Owosso, last Friday night, they had the misfortune to be thrown out of their wagon by one of the horses falling over the tongue of the vehicle. They luckily escaped without an injury or any damage except the breakage of a bicycle—If some of the people of this place do not recognize a bicycle as a vehicle they may have a wheel to pay for yet—Bernard Kliden, of New Lothrop, was in this vicinity last week selling Standard binder twine.

Parade, bands, drills, bicycle races, and other athletic sports, at Muskegon, Mich., on July 5th. Excursion rates on all railroads, good July 6th. Come and help make it a grand affair.

Morrice.

The funeral of Henry McKnight took place Thursday in the M. E. church. Mr. McKnight dropped dead in his field Tuesday while cultivating corn. He was 78 years of age and one of the early settlers of this section. He was a good man and held in high esteem by all who knew him. He leaves a widow who has the sympathy of the community—Rev. C. W. Barnum after attending the funeral of his brother, Rev. T. Barnum, Tuesday, went with his family to Fenton to visit his aged and sick mother. They returned Wednesday night—Mrs. V. Stewart, of Lansing, Sunday with her sister, Mrs. T. G. Chaffin—Mrs. Ed. Hartwell has been with her daughter for some weeks. Mrs. Foster, near Lansing—Mrs. Crouch, of Swartz Creek, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goldwood, and together they drove over to Fowlerville, Sunday, to visit friends there—Misses Nellie and Rosa Thompson, of Holt, relatives of Mrs. G. O. Austin, have been visiting her and returned home Thursday morning—Miss Ethylene Gilson, of Owosso, Sunday with the family of her uncle, H. B. Hodges—Miss Carrie Purdy had been at home with her parents since the time of her school last week—The commencement exercises of the high school were held Thursday night at the Presbyterian church. These school exercises are always hailed with interest in the community and are elevating and inspiring not only to the youth but to all classes.

It's Not the Bicycle

That is entitled to the credit for carrying the rider to the tape first.

It's his strength, muscle and good health.

Proper food and drink make these. Improper food and drink do the reverse.

Coffee is the bane of all athletes.

It affects the heart and wind.

All trainers agree on this and forbid its use.

Postum Cereal Food Coffee makes a steady heart; builds muscle and strength.

Trainers also agree on this and recommend its use.

Postmaster Stevens.

The contest for the Perry postoffice was happily settled Wednesday by the appointment of Charles H. Stevens. There were originally five candidates for the place, two of whom subsequently withdrew in favor of the successful candidate, who will assume control of the office July 1st. Mr. Stevens is one of the wide awake, popular young business men of Perry, a son of M. L. Stevens, who is well known throughout the county as a stalwart republican of the most pronounced kind. Mr. Stevens will prove his capability for the position by making one of the best postmasters Perry has ever had. He succeeds H. A. Spaulding, resigned. The appointment gives general satisfaction in Perry.

E. church next Sunday morning in memory of Rev. T. P. Barnum, a former and much loved pastor.

Byron.

Mrs. Hattie Rolison, of Argentine, was in town, Thursday, as a guest of Mrs. A. Hyatt. Mrs. Rolison is an accomplished teacher of music and may teach a class in Byron—Harrison Boyce is spending his vacation from the University, on his father's farm—The editor of the Herald has been in poor health the past week, but is able to be out on the street again, though rather weak—James Draper, of the firm of Wetmore & Draper, upholsterers, who recently removed to Perry from Byron, was here, Thursday—Miss Eva Lawrie returned last week from Centerville, South Dakota, where she has been teaching the past year—E. E. Kohler's little girl has recovered from a recent attack of tonsillitis—Miss Eunice Wheeler, who has lived alone here for several years, died Sunday. She was 90 years old—Mrs. White and Mrs. Comstock, of Owosso, were here Tuesday and Wednesday, to attend the funeral of a relative—D. C. Pifer and wife, of Celine, Ohio, were guests at W. A. Royce's—Our streets have been very much improved by the use of gravel—Richard Wellman, whose wife died about a year ago, is afflicted with softening of the brain, and though blessed with plenty of this world's goods, imagines that they are all in danger of starvation. He spends all his time standing in the yard in the rear of the house—will not go into the house unless led by some one—Jo. Harrington is having a house built on Mr. McKinney's farm—A baby boy came to the home of William McDonald and wife, last week; so the prospect is the Herald will not lack for printers, even though the older generation should pass away—We think patriotism is at rather a low ebb in the hearts of our school board, for although possessors of a flag and a pole, the pole was not put up, and consequently no flag floated to the breeze in the school yard on flag day—John W. Williams is on the sick list—B. S. Fosket and family attended a social at Myron Wilcox's, Union Plains, Wednesday evening—Mabel Fosket was home over Sunday—Miss Emma Lusk is visiting at Ovid—Owen Knapp and Mrs. Eva Betterly were at Oak Grove this week.

Shafesburg.

Quite a number from here have attended the P. M. camp meeting which is being held near Williamston—Miss Paul Van Riper entertained a number of her little friends last Wednesday in honor of her birthday—The third quarterly meeting of the M. E. church which was postponed on account of the sudden death of our pastor, will be held in the Graham church Sunday, July 4—While returning from camp meeting last Sunday, H. Hawkins captured a young stork by the roadside—Rev. T. P. Barnum, pastor of the M. E. church on this charge, died very suddenly at his home in Perry, last Saturday, of apoplexy. The funeral was held on Tuesday, at 2 p. m., and it is estimated that nearly one thousand people were present to take the last look at one whom they esteemed so highly and to drop the tear of sympathy with the sorrowing relatives so suddenly and terribly bereaved. The order of Odd Fellows and Macabees attended in a body to pay their tribute of love and respect to their slain comrade, for it seemed as though the death angel had really slain him in the midst of health, happiness and prosperity, and when he had so much planned for the Lord's work—the quarterly meeting at the Graham church, a revival at the Perry church, and a funeral sermon in hand—the death angel said to him it is enough, come up higher. Truly, one cannot understand the providence of God. The funeral was in charge of the presiding-elder and was very impressive when minister after minister read comforting portions of Scripture and recalled beautiful and touching incidents in the life and character of the deceased. Mr. Barnum was born in Steuben county, N. Y., in 1851, and was married to Miss Eva Christian in 1871. He was converted at the age of 17 and has led an exemplary Christian life ever since. He leaves a widow, six children, brother and sister, and an aged mother to mourn, but not as those who have no hope. The floral decorations were beautiful. The remains were taken to Hadley on Wednesday for burial where his aged mother was awaiting on a bed of sickness the arrival of the body of her dear son, who had so short a time ago visited her in apparently perfect health.

The summary of the new game law published last week was misleading regarding deer. State Game Warden Osborn publishes the following; which can be relied upon: "A great many sportsmen are under the erroneous impression that the revised game laws passed by the last legislature contain a provision prohibiting the killing of deer in Michigan until Nov. 10, 1899. The amended law contains a provision to that effect, which, however, only applies to Bois Blanc Island and the counties of Alcona, Lapeer, Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola, Macomb, Allegan, Ottawa and St. Clair.

Prof. G. R. Brandt, of Perry, is in the city to-day.

TO MEET HEAD ON!

FATE ARRANGED FOR TWO LAKE ERIE & WESTERN ENGINES.

Program of the Collision at Muskegon, Monday, July 5th, 1897.

On the afternoon of Monday, July 5th, thousands of men, women and children will be within a huge enclosure in or near the city of Muskegon, watching two engineers driving two locomotives up and down the track. The men of the grimy overalls will pet their steel steeds, as the typical engineer always does, gazing lovingly at each shining rod and brass, watching the sensitive needle of the steam gauge, trying the sand and preparing for the last sensational run. As the hour of 4 o'clock approaches the excitement of the great crowd will increase and every eye will have been fixed upon the engines, which will have drawn half a mile apart. Sharp as the minute hand passes the figure twelve, a white cloud of steam will rise from each of the black monsters so soon to be hurled forward at headlong speed, and the sharp scream of whistles will break the air. With a simultaneous movement each engineer will give steam to the machine he controls, and the driving wheels will begin to revolve.

MAKE A FLYING JUMP.

As the engines move forward each man will watch every motion and when the trembling and vibration which attends the starting of every train ceases, and the steady turning has begun, the throttle will be pulled wide open. Each engineer will make a flying jump, and gaining speed every second the locomotives with whistles screaming and bells ringing will rush forward to meet in that most fearful embrace known as a head-on collision. The impact will be tremendous and the spectacle long to be remembered. A flying locomotive is alone a wonderful sight, but when two are rushing together there is no other conception of gigantic visible force half so impressive and awe-inspiring. Every spectator will hold his breath and there will be no sound except the rush and roar of the huge engines and the final crash as they meet and rear up to fall a mangled mass of hopeless confusion.

BECOMES A REALITY.

This pen picture becomes a reality on Independence day at the time stated. The engines that are to be used will be supplied by the Lake Erie & Western Ry. company and will come from Indianapolis. They will each weigh 70,000 pounds and have 15x24 inch cylinders and four drivers. Geo. L. Bradbury, the vice president and general manager of the company, has taken great interest in this enterprise. The locomotives will be sent upon a week's notification, and their boilers will be subjected to a cold water test.

It is possible that one or more militia companies will be used as guards, and there will be a large force of special officers. Every precaution will be taken to keep the crowds back out of danger.

LARGE EXCURSIONS.

There will be large excursions run in from all directions. The Grand Trunk system is making arrangements for two large trains that will bring at least 3,000 persons. There will be extra coaches on every train running in here over the C. & W. M. and G. R. & I. roads. Boats will add large quotas to the crush and Muskegon can count upon having the largest number of visitors in its history.

NEW MUSEUM FOR EGYPT.

Some of the Things Deposited Under the Foundation Stone.

The foundation stone of the new museum, destined to contain the national collection of Egyptian antiquities now at Gizeh, was laid on the 1st inst. by the khedive, the ceremony being attended by the ministers, high officials, diplomatic corps and a few invited European residents, says a Cairo correspondent of the London Times. An Egyptian monolith of the twelfth dynasty, about 2500 B. C., was used to hold a box containing the following objects: "The process-verbal of the ceremony in French and Arabic; an account of the finding of the coffin; a bronze medallion portrait of the khedive bearing on the reverse the names Abbas Hilmi II., khedive; Mustapha Fahmy Pasha, prime minister; Hussein Fahry Pasha, minister of public works and instruction; J. de Morgan, director-general of antiquities; Marcel Dourgan, architect; specimens of current coins, photographs on parchment of the plans and facade of the building an ivory meter measure, a copy of the building specifications, and copies of native and European journals published at Cairo. The ornamental design of the process-verbal represented two pylons on which, after the names of Champollion and Mariette, inscribed as the chiefs among Egyptologists, were those of Rosellini, Nestor l'Hote, Lepsius, De Rouge, Brugsch, Prisse d'Avennes, Chabas, Lieblein, Maspero, Dumichen, Lepage, Renouf, Grebaut, Lanzone, Naville, Schiaparelli, Erman de Morgan, Lenormand, Pletie. The only English names inscribed on the document were those of Birch and Goodwin. The coffin, after being lowered into an underground cavity of masonry, was finally covered with a large cubical block of stone. Comment has been excited at the exclusion of such eminent names as those of Belzoni, Young, Wilkinson, Petrie, Spiegelberg, Sayce, from the roll of Egyptologists deposited under the foundation stone of the new museum.

THE JUNIOR GOT EVEN.

A Younger Member of the Hospital Staff Laughed Last.

The younger members of a hospital house staff, who are generally spoken of as the "juniors," do not lead an absolutely joyous and unclouded existence in the course of their daily work, says the New York Tribune. To catch a "junior" in error is regarded as eminently desirable by the older physicians, on general principles, and even the nurses derive great amusement from such an occurrence. It may be that the "junior's" proverbial confidence in his own abilities has had something to do with bringing about this state of things, and that he often deserves what he gets, but the following is the story of one instance where he laughed last. It happened not long ago in St. Luke's hospital, and in this way: A "junior," through carelessness or haste, had made a mistake in dating the order-book for the day. This was discovered presently by a nurse, who communicated it gleefully to one of the senior physicians, and made the suggestion, which was received with great favor, that he should write under the incorrect entry:

"This was done by the 'junior.'"

On the following day, when the victim of the criticism had occasion to examine the book, he was watched closely by the nurses to see what he would do when the above line met his eye. Greatly to their disappointment, he said nothing and did not even appear to have noticed the words. But a few minutes later a nurse found out the reason for his silence. There, on the first page for that day, which, by an amusing coincidence, had also been dated wrongly—this time by a nurse—was inscribed the following observation:

"This was not done by the 'junior.'"

Trusting Cod.

I well remember accompanying Mr. Lloyd, when keeper of the aquarium at the Crystal Palace, in a ramble "behind the scenes." The fish in every tank, even down to the small gray mullet, followed him eagerly as he walked along, "cupboard love" being possibly at the bottom of their affection. The cod were extraordinarily tame, and pushing their great noses out of the water, allowed themselves to be fondled by Mr. Lloyd's hand. Mention of the cod reminds me of reading an account of an inlet of the sea on an estate in Scotland, shut off artificially by a wall of loose rock, in which the cod were kept until wanted for the table. They grew very tame and came up to the bank to be fed with pieces of meat; and such was their faith in human nature that, when the fateful hour arrived and the gaff, adorned with a piece of meat, was presented, the unsuspecting cod would open his jaws as usual, only to be forthwith dragged from his natural element.—Field.

The Seed and the Soil.

Prof. Doellinger, one of the most erudite theologians of the Roman church, remarked in a lecture before the Munich Academy of Sciences, on the subject of "Founders of Religion," that religions did not drop ready made from heaven, nor could religious systems find a permanent resting place without a soil prepared to receive new ideas, on which they could grow and sprout. In fact, the ideas must have been in a state of germination, growing gradually to fruition, to spring into life at the touch of the founder's magic wand. It is the same with nations. They do not spring like Minerva out of Jupiter's head, full fledged. They are of slow growth, and when the proper leader and legislator steps upon the stage the material must be ready to be formed into a homogeneous whole.—The Minorah.

Wilson Lackaye presented "King and Player," a romantic drama by Rehnau and Price, for the first time at Montreal recently.

Edmund Gerson has sold to Klaw & Erlanger the United States rights of the grand Parisian spectacle, "Atlantis; or, The Lost World."

"La Samaritaine," a Biblical poem in three acts, by Edward Rostard, music by Gabriel Pierné, was given at the Renaissance, Paris, recently.

E. Arden Nobelett is arranging to make a New York production of "Captain Cook," an opera that was presented in San Francisco several years ago.

Sir Arthur Sullivan has composed a new Victorian ballet, for which he is to receive $10,000. His "Mikado" is soon to be produced in Brussels for the first time in French.

The will of the late Howard Potter has been probated, and it is shown that Mrs. Cora Urquhart Potter, the wife of his son, James Brown Potter, has been disinherited.

Miss Mary French Field says that her father, the late Eugene Field, didn't make a cent out of his popular poem, "A Little French In an Orchard Grove." Herbert Smith, who set it to music, realized $35, while the publisher of the song cleared $50,000.

In a town like St. Louis, where there is only one dress suit to every 1,000 of population, how could grand opera expect to succeed?—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The Declaration of Independence Saved by a Woman.

In an historical article recalling the destruction of our national capital by the British forces in 1814, Clifford Howard in the July Ladies' Home Journal will show that Dolly Madison, the most beloved and popular woman of her day, was courageous and fearless in the face of grave danger. In the mad stampede from Washington that preceded the invasion by the British troops, Dolly Madison was the last to seek safety in flight, and her final act before quitting the White House, as the enemy advanced, was to seize the Declaration of Independence and carry it with her to a place of safety. As the White House was immediately afterward looted and burned by the British, Mr. Howard declares that but for brave Dolly Madison the priceless parchment would have been destroyed.

Hires Root Beer Cannot be Imitated.

It is doubtful if any modern commodity, except money, has been counterfeited more than Hires Rootbeer. By progressive and costly advertising this article has attained a trade-mark peculiar to itself, and its wide popularity and immense sale is an irresistible attraction for the unscrupulous imitator. Justice, however, is beginning to realize that the public must be protected from such practices as is evinced by the decision just rendered by Judges Finletter and Gordon in Philadelphia, Court of Common Pleas No. 3, restraining George A. Hires, a namesake of Mr. Charles E. Hires, from manufacturing and selling a preparation under the name of Hires Rootbeer. This is a move in the right direction, as this superior article should not be substituted by inferior stuff.
